ICEWEB PARTNER THERMOPYLAE SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY (TST)
AWARDED CONTRACT FROM A DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE AGENCY FOR TWO LARGE ENTERPRISE UNIFIED STORAGE PLATFORMS

STERLING, VA., April 14, 2011 – IceWEB, Inc. (OTCBB: IWEB), www.IceWEB.com, a leading provider of Unified Data Storage and building blocks for cloud storage networks, announced today that TST will deploy two IceWEB 3000 Series Unified Data Storage Systems to power its Google™ Earth Enterprise Visualization and Mobile computing platforms for the DOD. IceWEB Storage Platforms provide the performance and storage capacity required by TST's iSpatial Geospatial 3-D Visualization and Tracking System.

“TST's iSpatial software framework coupled with IceWEB's storage and Google's Earth Enterprise product enables customers to visualize limitless amounts of data on a 3-D globe,” said John R. Signorello, IceWEB CEO. “iSpatial integrates with virtually any data source and can manage real-time information and mobile messaging directly from a web-based user interface. We're proud to be part of the TST team that is both transforming and expanding the Geospatial market in the government and private market sectors.”

Each IceWEB Model 3000 HC System will ship with 104 Terabytes and two 10 GB Ethernet interfaces for iSCSI and NAS connectivity. All IceWEB Unified Storage Systems support both file and block data, structured or unstructured, in both the cloud and data center environments. A complete array of storage management features are available including in-line de-duplication, compression and thin provisioning for unparalleled storage efficiency rates.

IceWEB and Promark Technology are working in tandem to ship this prototype order to a classified Department of Defense Agency. IceWEB and Promark are collaborating on this order to provide an expeditious turnaround on the delivery of this enterprise storage solution.
